They Screamed and Laughed and Learned Their Safety Lessons

WHERE DID HE GO?—Officer Pressley looks for an unruly actor that decided to hide in the barrel during the performance of the traffic circus Friday. The dog show, one of the two top shows of its kind, gave the students a chance to take part in the show.

THERE HE IS!!—The elementary students attending the two performances of Officer Pressley's Traffic Circus Thursday were invited to yell as loud as they could, and they did just that when the dog hid in the barrel from Officer Pressley.

They Give 40 Minute Show— Safety Circus Dog Tricks Emphasize Traffic Safety

Officer Pressley's Traffic Safety Circus emphasized traffic safety rules to a group of elementary students at Horace Mann School Thursday morning and again at Whittier School in the afternoon through a novel trick dog show.

Such tricks as a dog climbing a ladder was used to point out the rapid climb of traffic fatalities and other facts about traffic safety. In his commentary, Officer Pressley also pointed out some mistakes that parents make endangering their children's lives such as stopping on the opposite side of the street and waiting for their children to dash across the street to the car. Other traffic dangers pointed out to the elementary students were riding double on bicycles, riding bicycles at night without proper lighting, and crossing streets at places other than intersections.

"Police officers are your friends" is another point stressed by Pressley and children were told to inform adults to get themselves another "boogie man". The dogs performed various tricks like tight rope walking, climbing ladders, rolling barrels, climbing poles and other balancing acts. Lassie, the star of the show, started off the performance by raising a flag on a pole while the National Anthem was played.

Officer Ernest Pressley is a regular member of the Charlotte, N. C., police force and holds 121 memberships in other police forces from coast to coast. He is also an honorary Mayor of Magnolia, Ark. Mr. Pressley has been a member of the Charlotte police force for 15 years. He is accompa-

Attorney General Issues New Opinion On Vote Registration

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Atty. Gen. John M. Dalton put out today another in a series of opinions intended to clarify some of the confusion arising from a new voter registration law passed by the 1955 Legislature.

He advised Stephen N. Limbaugh, Cape Girardeau County prosecuting attorney, that Cape Girardeau voters may register up to the day before a special election like the Jan. 24 $75 million bond election.

But in a primary or general election, Dalton held that registration must close 28 days before the voting.

Another opinion advised Paul Boone, Ozark County prosecutor, that a consolidated school district there may not reject higher bids in order to sell unused school buildings to a church for a nominal sum.

Generally fair tonight; partly cloudy Saturday; continued mild; low tonight near 40; high Saturday in 60s.

The temperature at 7 a.m. was 34, 65 at 1 p.m. and 67 at 2 p.m.

The temperature one year ago today, high 68, low 36; two years ago, high 52, low 28; with one inch of moisture; and three years ago, high 46, low 27, with .75 inch of moisture.

Two Men Rob Drive-In Bank In New York

PORT CHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Two men robbed a drive-in bank today of an estimated $175,000 after kidnapping and holding captive all night a woman bank teller.

The teller, Mrs. Mary F. Kostolos, was reported unharmed. The holdup began at 10 o'clock last night. As Mrs. Kostolos drove her car into the driveway at her home, two men got into the car and forced her to drive them around for five hours.

At 3 a.m., they made her drive to the drive-in branch of the County Trust Co.

Using Mrs. Kostolos' key, the men entered the bank and took her with them, holding her captive in the building in preparation for the 8 a.m. opening for business.

Shortly before opening time a janitor made an unsuccessful attempt to unlock the bank door with his key. He went away for a few minutes, and when he returned for a second try to get in, one of the robbers opened the doors, seized the man and pulled him into the building.

A few minutes before 8, J. Purdy Ungemack, a bank official, arrived. The robbers forced him to open the vault, and made him carry all of the money to Mrs. Kostolos' car at the curb. Then they sped away, leaving Ungemack standing on the curb.

As the car left, a police car with two patrolmen pulled up and Ungemack told them what had happened. They sent in alarm, but by that time the robbers had disappeared in the direction of White Plains.

Mrs. Kostolos was not immediately available to describe her ordeal to reporters.

Chief of Police Fred C. Ponty said the robbers did not harm her physically.

Ponty placed the robbers' loot at $175,000.

The County Trust Co., is Westchester County's largest bank. Its drive-in branch at Mount Vernon was held up and robbed of $97,364 Sept. 24, 1954.

The largest donation, although not 100 per cent, was given by the Air Base Group headquarters, a total of $1,828. Second in line was the Air Refueling Squadron with $1,350. Third was the Air Police Squadron, with $1,222.

Even the civilian employees at the base got in the act, contributing $1,417.

Jordan King Ousts Former Army Chief

Move Considered
New, Serious Blow
To British Prestige

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Lt. Gen. John Bagot Glubb, dismissed as army commander, was escorted out of Jordan today under guard of 16 tanks. His ouster by King Hussein was a new blow to British prestige in the Middle East.

The British government, which set up Jordan's Arab Legion and has been subsidizing it, said it had assurances friendly relations would continue. But the Foreign Office in London said the "abrupt dismissal of this distinguished officer" brought deep concern to London officials.

Glubb, leader of the Arab Legion in the war against Israel in 1948, was dismissed as chief of the army general staff. Britain pays Jordan $22,400,000 annually for support of the 20,000-man Arab Legion. This is more than half the budget of the Arab kingdom.

In January Syria, Egypt and Saudi Arabia offered Jordan an annual grant to replace the British subsidy. The declared aim of the offer was to strengthen Jordan against "any Israeli aggression," but Westerners expressed belief a more primary purpose was to strengthen Jordan's rejection of bids to join the Baghdad defense alliance.

King Hussein and Premier Samir Rifai carried out the ouster of Glubb and other British officers to satisfy strong anti-Western elements demanding that the Arab Legion come completely under Arab control.

Judy Case Takes Part of Alice—

Capacity Crowd Attends First Performance of Variety Show

The auditorium of Smith-Cotton High School was filled Thursday night for the first showing of the Annual Spring Variety and Style Show sponsored by the PTA and the show will again be presented tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

The theme of the variety show is woven around Alice in Wonderland with Smith-Cotton's lovely little songbird, Judy Case, taking the part of Alice. The show began with a solo "Alice in Wonderland" by Judy Case after which the curtain opened up to the enchanting Disneyland, with the big castle surrounded by the familiar characters of Mickey Mouse, Minnie Mouse, Pluto, Donald Duck, Gumby and Jimmy Cricket. The chorus then joined in the song.

A lively number by the chorus was "How D'ye Do and Shake Hands" with solo parts by Arthur Dunham, Jackson Way, Bob Kreeger, Albert Reine, Don Edde and Jim Croy.

Judy Case then sang "A Dream Is a Wish Your Heart Makes" as a solo with the chorus and a dance by Barbara Dougherty.

Alice was shown around Disneyland and introduced to the various characters by Mr. Bunny, who was Dick Shoemaker. About that time a dragon came along and frightened Alice, after which Dick Shoemaker and John Welch as the dragon, sang "The Reluctant Dragon."

Judy Ragland, beautiful as Snow White, John Brummet, the prince, and the chorus sang, "Some Day My Prince Will Come" after which came the "Heigh Ho! Heigh Ho!" of the seven dwarfs.

A group of girls, with kings, queens and aces from a deck of cards, gave the "Dance of the Cards."

The appearance of Mickey Mouse, played by Camilla Welch, was followed by the "Work Song" of Cinderella, and her step mother and step-sisters, Pat Aldridge, Janice Ringen, Sandra Maune and Eleanor Hillman.

A very cute number "The Siam Cat Song" was by Nancy Pace, Peggy Murray and Rosalie Moore, who were dressed like cats even to the whiskers.

The finale was "He's Late" by Dick Shoemaker and the entire chorus, when Mr. Bunny, with his great big watch, found it was time to go.

The variety show was followed by a style show of new and very distinctive styles for men, women and children for spring. Colors, materials and fashions are in a wide range this year with almost everything being worn, and the local stores modeling have never had a more glorious spring array.

Women's styles included suits, coats, dresses, formal sports wear and not to let the ladies get ahead of them they had something, too, that gave the audience a big laugh—they modeled golf togs of 1956—and 1906.

The children always put on a show such as the little boy who saw somebody in the audience he recognized and yelled out at them, the little girl with her sister, who was scared, and the little boy with his two charming little girl companions, who let them turn around and show their clothes (Please turn to page 2, column 6)

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Norman Thomas, 71-year-old socialist party leader, said today President Eisenhower's second-term candidacy is a "grave mistake."

Thomas, six times a candidate for president on the socialist ticket, said in an interview here, it is not certain Eisenhower would be able to devote full time to the job if he is re-elected.

Describing himself as not unfriendly to the President, Thomas said it is his opinion Eisenhower and the Republicans are taking "too great a gamble" because of the President's health.

"Ike is the only Republican I can think of as President of the United States with any degree of competency."

Thomas, who last ran for the presidency in 1948, said he does not intend to become a candidate this time.

The report said heart ailments can best be prevented by "reduction of the working day, combining rest with work, balancing diet and participation in athletic activities."

Negro Coed's Case Pauses In Confusion

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—The case of Catherine Lucy, Negro student who wants to continue her studies at the all-white University of Alabama, was in a state of confusion today.

The trustees' action came within hours of an order from Federal Judge H. Hobart Grooms ordering her readmission to the university. She had been suspended Feb. 6 after riots on the campus over her presence.

Her attorney Arthur D. Shores said he had no idea what legal course he would pursue in an additional effort to have the 25-year-old former schoolteacher readmitted.

Miss Lucy herself was in New York for medical attention and "rest, peace and quiet."

She left Birmingham yesterday with Thurgood Marshall, chief counsel for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. The NAACP has been backing her efforts over the past 29 months to be admitted to the university.

In expelling Miss Lucy from the university, the trustees accused her of making "false, defamatory, impertinent and scandalous charges" against university officials.

The expulsion resolution said, "No educational institution can maintain the necessary disciplinary action if any student, regardless of race, guilty of the conduct of Catherine J. Lucy be permitted to remain."

The Negro woman was enrolled at the university Feb. 1 in compliance with a Federal District Court order issued by Grooms.

In the wake of the riots, the Board of Trustees ordered her suspension for "her safety" and the "safety of others."

Miss Lucy's attorneys promptly filed contempt of court proceedings against 13 university officials and trustees. In the contempt motion Miss Lucy charged these officials had conspired with members of the mob to keep her from attending classes. The petition called the mob action a "cunning stratagem."

In the court hearing Wednesday, however, Marshall moved to amend the contempt proceedings, striking all references to a conspiracy.

In his findings, Grooms exonerated the trustees and officials of the contempt charges on the grounds they acted in good faith in excluding her from the campus after the riots. However, he ordered her readmitted by 9 a.m. Monday.

Heart Victims May Not Like It

"In our present grave situation, in a world divided against itself, the Presidency is not to be given to any man as a token of affection and esteem."

That might have been an appropriate Republican slogan in the 1944 presidential campaign, but it wasn't used by the Republicans against a Democrat. So the slogan was reserved for use by the Democrat political hierarchy in 1956.

The world today is not near in as bad shape as it was in 1944 when a presidential candidate's health, by comparison, lacked the virility of the Republican candidate this year.

If Americans start ruling out citizens from a life of usefulness and service to their country just because they have had a heart attack then the ranks of political and business leaders are going to be thinned out pretty fast. A heart victim is not necessarily a mental or a physical cripple. There was a time when heart attacks used to kill half the victims, but 80 to 90 per cent now survive the first attack and most go back to normal work.

In addition to the ceremonial falderol which in this modern age should no longer be a part of the regimen of a chief executive, President Eisenhower since his heart attack has resumed most of the burdensome tasks of his office.

The President's frank talk with the people concerning his health and willingness to be the Republican standard bearer emphasized confidence:

"As of this moment, there is not the slightest doubt that I can perform as well as I ever have, all of the important duties of the presidency. This I say because I am actually doing so and have been doing so for many weeks. . . . So far as I am concerned I am confident that I can continue to carry them on indefinitely."

The hazard of a heart attack does not rate percentage-wise with the possibility of a candidate for chief executive dying in an airplane crash, being shot by an assassin, or killed in an automobile accident.

Ike survived a heart attack; Adlai Stevenson survived an automobile accident. What's the difference? If Ike was elected President he might die of another heart attack; if Stevenson was elected he might die in another automobile accident.

So the political emphasis on the hazards of Ike's Republican heart going bad the second time, whereas the Democrat hearts will never lose their rhythmic beat, is nonsense.

That's what a lot of people with weak hearts think. They resent this political drum beating about heart attacks. Ten million people in the United States now suffer from some form of heart or circulatory disease.

If the Democrats make them mad enough those 10 million may be driven to the polls to vote for Ike.

Let's hear more from the politicians about the farm problem, or foreign policy, and less about heart attacks.

Nixon Has Time to Work and Wonder

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Richard M. Nixon—tall, dark, 43, and an unusually active vice president—can't help feeling self-conscious. At this moment he doesn't know whether the Republicans will pick him to run again.

But he has plenty of time—between now and his party's convention next August—to work to keep his job and wonder what, if anything, he's done wrong.

He has worked hard for the Republican party—and for himself, of course, since he is ambitious—and for President Eisenhower, who has repeatedly praised him. He has strong Republican support in Congress and among state chairmen and national committeemen. But there is some Republican sentiment for ditching him. He has been a controversial figure—certainly among Democrats.

When the time came for Eisenhower to say he'd run again—as it did Wednesday—he lauded Nixon once more but declined to say whether he wanted his vice president as a running mate again in 1956. He will wait until the convention, he said.

Eisenhower knows that because of his health the voters this year will give solemn thought to the President and vice president they choose; that a vote for the vice president on Eisenhower's ticket may be a vote for president.

Nixon was a hard campaigner in 1952, and again in the 1954 congressional campaign, which the Republicans lost. The Democrats made Nixon a main target just as he did with them.

Nixon said the usual things. He called the Democrats "Doomocrats" and "Dumocrats" and he spoke of then President Truman as that "piano-playing letter writer."

Those weren't the things which turned the Democrats' fury against him. It was the way he charged them with being "soft" on communism and with letting Communists penetrate the government.

Truman apparently despises him. Last November Truman was quoted—but later denied using profanity—as saying "I don't like the . . . and I don't care who knows it."

Last Feb. 3 Truman exploded hardest. He accused Nixon of having called him a traitor. Nixon on Feb. 13 denied he had called Truman a traitor or the Democratic party the party of treason. Leonard W. Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said he'd give $1,000 to charity if Truman could prove Nixon called him a traitor.

Paul M. Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said Hall was "splitting hairs" and trying to "clean up" Nixon for the 1956 campaign. He didn't show where Nixon had actually called Truman a traitor.

But he said Nixon tried to give that impression and accused him of being the "leading practitioner of a cruel and malignant political weapon—the not-quite-libelous smear."

Without calling them traitors to their country, Nixon once did use the word in speaking of Truman, Acheson and 1952 Democratic presidential nominee Adlai E. Stevenson. On Oct. 27, 1952, he said those three men were:

"Traitors to the high principles in which many of the nation's Democrats believe. Real Democrats are outraged by the Truman-Acheson-Stevenson communism in high places."

Delinquency Stems From Youths' Aimless Idle Time

A group of young mothers was discussing the problem of juvenile delinquency and trying to figure out its causes.

A grandmother who had brought up a large family of her own and now has several teen-age grandchildren spoke up and said:

"The only difference I can see between kids today and their parents when they were the same age is that kids today are bored."

"They don't have anything to do but amuse themselves. And they don't know how to do that."

"So they ride around in cars and start getting into trouble. They aren't expected to do anything with their time but have fun. They get into trouble because they have too much time to kill."

I think that grandmother is right. In a great many homes today both Mama and Papa are working so that their kids won't have to.

They figure they owe their kids a nice home, spending money, a social life, good clothes and use of the family car. But they don't figure the kids owe them anything.

Sis doesn't help with the housework, Junior doesn't take care of the yard.

Neither are they expected to earn their own spending money. What Mama and Papa can't do they hire done so the kids can have their fun.

Tax Loopholes Favor Big Oil Companies

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The more you look into the Superior Oil Company and the Keck family which tried to give that $2,500 to Senator Case, the more amazing the picture becomes.

Senate investigators have just discovered that Superior Oil Company not only paid zero income taxes in 1953 and 1954, but actually made money in the form of tax credits under the special tax laws written for the benefit of the oil industry.

This may explain why Superior's free-spending president, Bill Keck, was able to throw political contributions around.

All other corporations have been paying 52 per cent of their net income as taxes since 1952. Yet the rich oil companies have been paying next to nothing because of depletion allowances and other tax loopholes.

Keck's company earned $10,360,388 net income in 1954. But believe it or not, after all the tax deductions were added, the government ended up owing the company $100,000 in tax credits. The company's tax returns for 1953 were even more incredible. Its net income before taxes was $12,500,382. The net income after taxes was $13,000,382 — or $500,000 more than the original income. Again, the government paid off this half-million in the form of tax credits.

In other words, oil companies are the only corporations that can end a year with a huge income and collect taxes from the government instead of the other way around.

Bad Times Under Democrats

In 1952, when Harry Truman was in office, Superior didn't do as well. Out of a $12,100,165 income, the company actually paid the government $200,000. However, this was only 1.6 per cent of its income while companies in other industries were paying 52 per cent.

The highest tax Superior has paid in the past 10 years was $3,000,000 in 1948, also under Truman. This was only 16.7 per cent, however, of a $17,917,474 income. In 1946, Superior again paid absolutely no income tax. Most often the payment has amounted to a paltry $200,000.

Guest Editorial—

HOUSTON POST: Illiterates With Diplomas. For years, the colleges have denounced the shortcomings of the high schools. Said the professors: the high schools send us young men and women who cannot read anything more substantial than comic books, cannot spell anything more difficult than c-a-t, and cannot write a coherent letter.

Now the graduate schools are giving it to the colleges. Same general theme. Same basic protest: the colleges are sending us illiterates with diplomas.

Dean William Warren of Columbia Law School is the plaintiff in this case. Says the dean: his faculty are appalled at the ignorance of some of the college graduates who want to be trained for the law.

These neophytes, these would-be-Darrows, these aspiring Great Mouth-pieces, have not been taught to read solid non-fiction, to write the King's English accurately or correctly, and know next to nothing of American government and history. Yet all of them have college degrees, admitting them, nominally at least, to the company of educated men and women.

In one freshmen class at Columbia Law School, says the disturbed dean, fewer than half of the student lawyers had ever taken a course in American political history and only one in five had studied the fundamentals of English composition.

"Whatever may be the arts of which these men are bachelors," says Dean Warren sadly, "writing is not one of them."

It is easy to joke about this report. But it isn't too funny. If the dean's findings at Columbia are representative, then our colleges are turning out illiterates and this is bad for them and for the nation, too.

Of what use is our great educational system if it does not educate?

which happened to be the figure for 1949, 1950 and 1952.

By paying only token taxes, the oil companies have been able to raise more money to lobby for more tax loopholes. These, in turn, have freed more money to lobby for still more loopholes — a merry, profitable merry-go-round for the oil boys. But it's the small taxpayers who are really financing the oil lobby, since they have to make up the taxes the oil companies don't pay.

NOTE — Thanks to these astonishing tax benefits, millionaires have sprung up in the oil industry as nowhere else. Texas Oil millionaires have been contributing vast sums to their political pets, like Sen. Joe McCarthy, and pouring money into political magazines, broadcasts, and other propaganda to influence public opinion.

NOTE 2 — For years Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas has carefully scrutinized the House Ways and Means Committee which writes the tax laws to make sure nobody was put on that committee who might vote against the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance and the right of oil-gas companies to write off the total cost of drilling wells. This is one reason the special tax benefits have never been changed.

Oil vs. Wildlife

What the oil-gas companies have been getting out of the Ike Administration continues to unfold with exciting drama. I owe an apology for under estimating this generosity in the past.

On Jan. 11, 1956, I revealed for the first time how "Generous Doug" McKay had bowed to Maj. Gen. Frank Schwengel, president of Seagram's whiskey, and granted drilling rights in the Lacassine Waterfowl Refuge of Louisiana to Seagram's Frankfort Oil Company.

I also reported that, prior to this, McKay had placed a stop order against oil permits in game preserves. This was wrong. And I apologize for underestimating McKay's generosity.

For, during the fall of 1953, "Generous Doug" issued 33 oil and gas leases to the Shell Oil Company in the Railroad Valley Game Management area of Nevada.

Hundreds of small wildcaters abandoned their applications during McKay's alleged "stop order." They took McKay at his word, thought no leases were processed while that order was on the books from Aug. 31, 1953, to Dec. 2, 1955. However, a potent company, Shell Oil, got closer to McKay than the others and secured 33 leases.

This was developed during testimony before the House Marine and Fisheries Committee.

"After all, he (McKay) had issued the stop order, and he had the right to change the stop order if he wanted to," testified Donald J. Chaney, Interior Department lawyer for Fish and Wildlife.

"Did he give any notice of lifting the stop order?" asked Chairman Herbert Bonner of North Carolina.

"No, not that I know of," replied Chaney, "no public notice."

"So that other people who wanted to get this property could come in and make the same claims?"

"Not that I know of," Chaney admitted.

Next day Rep. Henry S. Reuss (D-Wis.) pointed out that during McKay's so-called "stop order," a total of 60 oil and gas leases had been issued. By contrast, only 16 leases had previously been issued during the entire 55-year history of wildlife refuges.

"I suggest that this really is not a very good way to run a government department; that when we want to repeal an order we repeal it in writing, and we duly publicize the repeal so that all may know what is going on. We do not simply violate the order," Reuss insisted.

Campaign Strategy May Be 'Shoot Straight For Heart'

By JOSEPH A. DEAR
Democrat-Capital
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The Democrats will be shooting for the heart in the up-coming campaign.

Paul Butler, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, made that plain enough immediately after President Eisenhower said yes, "The American people," Butler predicted, "will never elect a President who, at 65, has had a serious heart attack and who is unable to be a full time chief executive."

Butler, an esthetic who neither drinks nor smokes, elaborated in an angry address to a luncheon at the National Press Club. He piously insisted that he was not making the President's health a campaign issue. The President himself did that, Butler said. He quoted the President's admission that he would never enjoy the same excellent state of health that had been his before the coronary.

Whether the Democrats can hope to gain much from this line of attack is questionable. President Eisenhower has discussed his health with unerring objectivity. He has even deprecated somewhat the optimistic assessment of the medical men.

And after laying it on the line, he has said, in effect: Look I'm available for duty if you want me. This will hit the right note with many people.

For the appearance is that the President is a man who refused to duck out from under the world's toughest job when he had every excuse to do so. Of course, the Gettysburg farm isn't far from Washington, and the President might figure on spending more time there next term. But no matter. It will still be possible to depict Ike as the man who would not quit.

And what brand of campaign will Eisenhower put on? (His nomination now is all but inevitable.) He gave the clue before his strength-testing vacation in Georgia. He wouldn't barnstorm about the country soliciting votes. The implication was that a whistle-stop jaunt diminished the presidency.

So it will undoubtedly be a rocking chair campaign before television cameras. Towards the end, if the outlook is bleak for enough Republican candidates, Ike may engage in the undignified scramble as he did in 1952. But it's a safe bet that he'll try to run in low gear.

His running mate may set the tone of the GOP nation-wide campaign. And in fact, the outcome of the election may hinge on his running mate. For many citizens will feel they are voting for two Presidents if they endorse the Republican ticket.

The high command of the GOP

Cooped up in cities, boys without responsibilities lead aimless lives. They have so little to do that they go in for peroxide hair, crazy haircuts, outlandish clothes, etc. They play big shot by bragging, bullying and petty thievery. "We did it for laughs," a couple of teen-agers who were finally caught after a succession of hold-ups told the arresting officers.

And that pretty well sums up the attitude of today's juvenile delinquents. They do things for "kicks" and for "laughs" because they have more time and freedom than they know what to do with. For most people work is the best medicine for boredom. But we've taken work away from youngsters and have left them only boredom.

Thinking It Over—For Lent

By Robert Dieffenbacher, D.D.

Our children brought their report cards home from school a month ago. Many a child shivered in his boots because mother or dad would question or scold him for his poor results. Others were proud of their achievements and commendation. Thousands, yes, millions of others were just average.

The parents of the nation showed a variety of feelings ranging from pride, through indifference, to rage. Now that the grading period is over we breathe hopefully until the next date of decision.

In the meantime—right now—what are we doing to help our children improve? What can we do? What ought we to do?

We can do our best to assist with reading, writing, and arithmetic.

We can encourage our children to do their best. Most of all we can set an example by doing our best.

We can show that we are honest and sincere.

We can be truly interested instead of being indifferent.

We can show our children that prayer and worship make us happier and more effective in everything we do.

If our concentrated Lenten devotions do not help both us and our children, we had better not be too critical of mere report cards.

Wes Santee Will Compete On Saturday

NEW YORK (AP)—Wes Santee, America's controversial miler, returns to competition tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden with the blessing of a State Supreme Court justice and the approval of the Knights of Columbus track officials.

A court injunction signed yesterday by Justice James McNally and followed several hours later by a statement from K. of C. meet director Tom Harrigan paved the way for the return of the 24-year-old Marine lieutenant.

Santee, only American to come close to the magic 4-minute mile and this country's chief 1,500-meter hope in the Melbourne Olympics, was handed a lifetime suspension Feb. 19 by the Amateur Athletic Union's Executive Committee.

The AAU action came after a special investigating committee reported the former University of Kansas runner had taken monies above allowable expenses for a number of meets in 1955, including three in California.

At Quantico, Va., where he is on duty with the Marine Corps, Santee said he had been working out despite the AAU ban.

Charles P. Grimes, Santee's attorney who sought the temporary injunction, said Wes would arrive in New York today. Justice McNally set March 9 for the hearing on the injunction. Upon that decision likely will determine whether Santee will be permitted to run meets at Cleveland, Chicago and Milwaukee later this month.

Yesterday's action set the stage for a return engagement between Santee and Ron Delany, an Irishman from Villanova who has ruled the mile roost all season. In their only previous meeting, at Boston Jan. 28, Delany won in 4:06.3 as Santee faded to fourth after following a blazing early pace. Wes was clocked in 4:08.8.

The AAU had no immediate comment on the Knights of Columbus decision to abide by an invitation, which its statement said was extended to Santee Jan. 19.

But after the injunction was signed Secretary-Treasurer Dan Ferris said:

"Now that the injunction has been granted, maybe the people involved will have enough sense to do the right thing."

The day after Santee's suspension and after Grimes had warned of his plans for an injunction, Ferris told meet promoters that Santee's entry in a meet—even with an injunction—would not be accepted. At the same time he advised meet directors they would jeopardize his amateur standing. The AAU rules forbid an amateur to compete against professionals.

Ezzard Charles Loses First Ten Ranking By Ring Magazine

NEW YORK (AP)—For the first time in about 14 years, the name of Ezzard Charles, former heavyweight champion, does not appear in the first ten rankings of Ring Magazine.

The fading 34-year-old Cincinnati veteran, 10th a month ago, was left out of the rankings released today to make room for young Harold Carter of Linden, N. J. Carter was rated ninth.

There were other changes in the heavyweight division still headed in order by Rocky Marciano, light heavyweight champion Archie Moore, Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, Bob Baker and John Holman.

Johnny Summerlin of Detroit advanced to No. 5 contender on the strength of his victory over young Jack Johnson. He was followed by Nino Valdes, Willie Pastrano, Bob Satterfield, Carter and Johnson.

ABC's 53rd Annual Bowling Tournament Begins Tomorrow

ROCHESTER, N. Y., (AP)—Bowling's world series, the 53rd annual American Bowling Congress' Tournament, swings into action tomorrow at Rochester.

A total of 5,845 teams from 41 states and three foreign countries will have rolled by the time the tourney closes May 20. This is the fifth largest entry list in the history of the ABC and the largest ever east of Detroit.

Heinsohn, Floyd Share Glory With Upset, Close Shaves

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Tom Heinsohn and Darrell Floyd, a pair of spanking new All Americas, shared the spotlight with an upset and a couple of close shaves in college basketball last night.

Heinsohn did everything but put out the cat for Holy Cross, popping in 51 points and clearing 42 rebounds as the Crusaders, warming up for the NCAA Tournament, routed Boston College 111-75.

Floyd, Furman's two-time All America, was only a step or two behind in point production with a total of 43 for a Southern Conference Tournament record while leading the Paladins to an 84-70 elimination of Virginia Tech.

It was the Southern's survival-of-the-fittest shindig at Richmond, Va., that unveiled the upset, with Washington and Lee's four-star General laying the wood to George Washington 63-60. George Washington had been covefavored

Three Records May Be Set in Big Seven Track and Field Meet

KANSAS CITY (AP)—At least three records appear in danger but the tight hold Kansas has on the team title appears safe as the Big Seven Conference indoor track and field meet gets under way tonight.

Kansas will be an overwhelming favorite to win its fifth straight championship. Missouri and Oklahoma, both beaten by the Jayhawks in dual meets this winter, are considered strong threats.

There appears to be good possibilities for new records in the shot put, high jump and pole vault.

Bill Neider of Kansas has surpassed 58 feet three times in the shot put this season and consistently has done better than 57. He holds the meet record of 53 feet 10 1/2 inches.

Hendrick Kruger, Oklahoma, Stew Walker, Colorado, and Paul Miller, Kansas State, are given a good chance to top the 13 feet 11 1/2 pole vault record. All have better than 14 feet this winter.

Bob Gannon, Kansas State, and Missouri's Bob Lang both have bettered the 6-5 1/2 high jump record. Except for finals in the broad jump, tonight's program will be confined to preliminaries. Finals in other events will be held Saturday night.

Entitled to Every Homer

DETROIT (AP)—General Manager Herold (Muddy) Ruel of the Detroit Tigers was praising Charley Lau, a 22-year-old catching prospect.

"He's a good hitter," Ruel said. "He hit 18 home runs for Durham in the Carolina League last season."

"Er, excuse me, Mr. Ruel," said Lau shyly. "I really hit 19. I wrote to the League about it. One got lost in the shuffle."

Reese Claims He Still Feels 'Like a Kid'

By BEN OLAN
The Associated Press

Harold (Pee Wee) Reese, who got his nickname because he liked to shoot marbles as a youngster, still feels "like a kid" as he prepares to start his 14th season with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"Maybe an injury will stop me," he said today. "But a 21-year-old can get hurt too. And barring something of that nature, there isn't the slightest doubt in my mind about my ability to have another good year."

Pee Wee batted .282 in 145 games in 1955 and there are some who will argue that he—not Roy Campanella or Duke Snider—was the most important guy for the Dodgers, who swept to their first world championship.

"I'm more confident this year than I was last spring," said the 36-year-old shortstop. "I had some serious doubts a year ago. My legs were giving me trouble and one day I told my wife that it looked like the beginning of the end."

He said that when the team reached the North, he looked up Leslie MacMillan, the retired track star who had been the running coach in the Dodger camp for several years. MacMillan told him that running over a hard indoor track was the worst possible thing for a ballplayer to do.

"And I had done just that," Reese admitted. "This winter, I did no running at all. Just some bicycling to keep my legs in trim."

Meanwhile, Stan Musial, another guy who knows his way around the National League, was bubbling over with enthusiasm in the St. Louis Cards' camp in St. Petersburg, Fla.

"I feel better this spring than at any training time I can remember," said the six-time batting champ.

The managers made most of the news in the other camps yesterday.

New York Giants' skipper Bill Rigney named Foster Castelman as his No. 1 choice for the regular second base spot. Pittsburgh pilot Bobby Bragan slapped a midnight curfew on the Pirates, declaring, "Let's do things my way, so I can take the blame."

Cincinnati Manager Birdie Tebbetts reported that 18 of the 37 players on the Redlegs' roster are pitchers.

The holdout ranks were reduced when Gene Woodling of Cleveland, Bob Miller of the Phillies, Chuck Diering of Baltimore, Whitey Ford and Irv Noren of the Yankees and Jack Dittmer of Milwaukee came to terms.

Hog Wild

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The man said his dogs had trailed an animal for more than 10 minutes, but when he reached the dogs only the head was left.

The hunter sent the head to the Conservation Department to find out what it was. Game Chief C. O. Handley told him: the jaw of a pig.

"Apparently your dogs picked it up along the trail and quit the hunt to eat it," Handley explained.

The longest scoring play for UCLA last season was the 75-yard play in which Ronnie Knox tossed to Hal Smith in the Iowa game.

Three teams in the Chicago White Sox chain won pennants in 1955. They were Memphis in the Southern Assn., Colorado Springs in the Western League and Dubuque, Iowa in the Mississippi-Ohio Valley League.

Milwaukee Pitcher Expects Fast Ball To Return This Year

BRADENTON, Fla., (AP)—The word going the rounds in the National League last year was that left-handed Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves had lost his high, hard one.

This is another season and the slender, 34-year-old dean of Charlie Grimm's mound corps refuses to admit his fall ball doesn't have the zip to make it effective again.

"If I were up to par physically, then I'd be convinced I've lost it. But, I've had sieges like that before. In 1948, for an example, the fast ball deserted me. Then all of a sudden by World Series time it came back and I pitched the greatest ball of my life."

"I was physically fit then and from the looks of things this spring I'm physically fit now so this year will provide the real test."

Spahn, the Braves' breadwinner since 1947 when he turned in a 21-10 record, will be aiming for his seventh season of 20 or more victories. He's the only active National League southpaw with six seasons to his credit. He won 17 and lost 14 last year.

He needs only 17 victories to join the select 200 list.

Illinois and Iowa Game May Decide Big Ten Title Winner

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Illinois and Iowa meet for what should be the Big Ten basketball championship at Iowa City Saturday afternoon.

The game will be nationally televised (2 p. m. CST-CBS). Illinois and Iowa are tied for the conference lead with 11-1 records and each winds up the season Monday. Indiana is at Iowa and Illinois is at Northwestern Monday night.

On paper, Saturday's game is a "pick it" affair. Illinois tops the conference with a 93.6 scoring average to a 79.3 for Iowa. But the Hawkeyes lead the conference in defense, limiting their opponents to a 69.5 scoring average while Illinois has been nicked for a 76.1 average.

Bibb Falk, 57, an outfielder for 12 seasons in the American League with Cleveland and Chicago, is coaching the University of Texas as baseball team. He led the Longhorns to NCAA titles in 1949 and 1950.

"I would like information on deer and beer hunting in Idaho." It came from Balboa Island, Calif.

Indians Leave Unhappy Hunting Grounds For Better Life Among Paleface Brothers

THEIR TEEPEE NOW HAS TV: The family of Roy Davis, who left the reservation in Oklahoma and moved to San Francisco, pose in their city apartment. Davis was at his steel plant job.

By KENNETH GILMORE
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON —(NEA)—Thous-

sands of American Indians are now leaving their unhappy hunting grounds and heading for the big cities.

Backed with wampum from Uncle Sam to cover transportation, redskins are seeking a more prosperous life among their paleface brothers. Most of them make the grade.

Take Roy Davis, a Creek Indian from the Muskogee area in Oklahoma. Last August he and his wife packed up and left for San Francisco with their eight kids. Like countless other Indians, he found that he couldn't make a decent living among his own people.

Today Roy can afford a four-bedroom apartment with two baths. Mrs. Davis has made it attractive, neat and clean. And they have just bought a TV set. All but the youngest child is in school, and the kids no longer talk of "going back home."

Roy and his family are typical of the 3,500 Indians the government has helped relocate during 1955, according to the Bureau of Indian Affairs at the Interior Department.

When Davis arrived in San Francisco he and his family were met by members of the Indian Bureau relocation staff who immediately housed them in temporary quarters.

Then they interviewed Roy and began to check among employers in the area for a job he could handle. Soon he was hired by the Bethlehem Pacific Coast Steel Co., and he now makes $2.10 an hour. A $53-a-month apartment was found for him near the plant.

Indians like Davis come from roughly 16 reservations in eight states. They have a choice of going to relocation offices in Denver, San Francisco, Los Angeles or Chicago.

Last year 22 per cent of the Indians who moved to these cities gave up and returned to their reservations. Officials here say this is a good record, however. They also point out that the 3,500 relocatees represent a 60 per cent increase over any previous year since the program began in 1952.

"The critical period is the first two months after they arrive," explains Carl W. Beck, Assistant to the Commissioner of the Bureau of Indian Affairs. "Right now employment is not the problem. It's home adjustment."

"Those Indians that we assist are carefully screened at the reservation level," stresses Beck. "If they're floaters or drunks we don't consider them. It would be a waste of time and money."

In the four cities where Indians have relocated with government assistance they have more than satisfied their employers, according to Beck.

"Indians excel in the kind of work that requires manual dexterity, good eyesight and patience," he says. "Thus they are sought by electronics, textile and aircraft industries."

Better than 20 per cent of the Indians who relocated last year traveled without special financial assistance. For example, Peter Allard and his wife left the Turtle Mountain reservation in North Dakota and drove to San Francisco last November. They sold property to pay for the trip. The day after he arrived he went to work at $1.86 an hour.

Brando Goes To Japan For Filming

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — This week that vastly independent young man Marlon Brando embarks on a new film adventure that will take him to Japan to play a wily Okinawan.

Last year at this time, Brando was about to win his long-awaited, long-desired Academy Award. He remarked that the film he wanted to do next—he was then making a musical, "Guys and Dolls"—was the John Patrick comedy "Teahouse of the August Moon."

Whatever Marlon wants, Marlon gets. MGM was only too happy to meet his terms in order to sign him for the role David Wayne created on Broadway (later played by Burgess Meredith and Larry Parks on the road.)

I caught up with Brando before his departure for the Orient. He was lunching at Paramount with George Englund, handsome young producer for Brando's Pennebaker Productions.

"I'm very happy about 'Teahouse,'" Brando remarked. "We've got a fine cast, Delbert Mann is a great director, and filming it in Japan should give added value."

"It's a very funny story. But more than that, it says something. It has a lesson in internationality which I think is valuable today. It should help in promoting understanding."

The picture will be filmed at Kyoto, Nara and other locations. Others in the cast include Glenn Ford as the bewildered occupation officer, Louis Calhern as his superior, Eddie Albert as the psychiatrist and Harry Morgan as the sergeant.

The actor said MGM artists have devised a fabulous makeup to orientalize him for the picture.

"I wear patches on the eyelids, face lines and a wig," he said. "It's really great. I don't think that the makeup men get the credit they deserve for their contribution to pictures."

Skin Damaged by Weather Needs Regular Lubrication

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Toward the end of winter, many women find that their skins are languishing. Many who have extra sensitive skins find that the simple repetition of soap and water and cold weather has caused peeling and drying.

Regular use of a rich lubricating cream helps many faced with this problem. It doesn't take hours of rubbing in and rubbing off, but rather daily use of the cream before going to bed at night. Don't expect that one frantic day of using cream after cream will do the job that daily lubrication can do.

When you're ready for bed, wrap a towel around your head to protect your hair and put a few dabs on the face and neck. Then use brisk, patting motions with your finger tips to work the cream into the skin. Leave it on overnight. In the morning, you'll find some improvement. After several days of this routine, your skin will begin to revive.

One good cream, made especially for the kind of dry skin women get seasonally, is soft and almost liquid feeling. It lubricates and has several emollient ingredients.

Good help for dry skin is a rich lubricating cream that's worked with the finger tips and is left on overnight.

Actor Could Write Book On Mistakes

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 1 — Dale Robertson, newly embarked on a free-lance acting career, could write a book titled "Mistakes I Have Made."

The drawing actor is getting his career off the ground after a sensational beginning and then a dull period. Despite a generous fan following, Robertson failed to fulfill his promise. Now he can look back on the experience and profit from what went wrong.

He admits that he was too frank and too trusting.

"I got some of the press mad at me," he remarked. "In October two years ago, I counted up 183 layouts that had been done on me that year. That was entirely too much. Even if you're very fond of chicken, you're going to get tired of it if I feed it to you every day."

"So I said I wasn't going to do any more publicity for the last two months of that year. But people didn't like that. The press started potshotting at me, and some of them have not let up since."

His big mistake, he concluded, was allowing those 183 layouts to be made in the first place.

Concerning his acting career, he said that he erred in signing with 20th Century-Fox.

"I had a good role in 'Fighting Man of the Plains,'" he explained. "The studios started courting me, and my agents urged me to sign with Fox. I thought it would be better to play the independent field; I had offers for four pictures. But my agents argued that I needed a big studio behind me."

"So I signed. And I never did get a role as good as the one I had in 'Fighting Man of the Plains.'"

The Oklahoma did some films on the lot, then became the loan-out king. He figures the studio made around $800,000 profit on his services to other producers.

The low point was his loan to Howard Hughes for the gaudy, girly "Son of Sinbad."

The start of Robertson's rebellion came when the studio planned to lend him for "White Feather"—"playing fourth lead to Robert Wagner." That's when he drew the line—and his first suspension.

Thereafter he underwent a period of siege with the studio, finally getting his release last December. Since then he has made "Dakota Incident" for Republic, a Ford Theater TV show and plans to go to London next month for another film.

3 Million Dollar Campaign For Eisenhower Is All Set

By PETER EDSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— The Republican Party is ready to spend $3,000,000 to re-elect President Eisenhower.

"The campaign that President Eisenhower will wage has been mapped out for months," says Leonard W. Hall, GOP National Chairman.

It can now be revealed that campaign funds were fully discussed with the President and approved by him during the last five months while he was supposed to be "making up his mind."

With the President definitely in the race, primary elections in the states become insignificant for the Republicans, Hall believes.

The President's name will undoubtedly be entered in all state contests still open. But it is expected that these contests will be largely between local GOP political leaders. They'll be clamoring for places on the bandwagon as delegates to the San Francisco convention, to nominate Ike by acclamation on the first ballot.

The GOP convention, opening Aug. 20, will kick off the campaign. It will then be concentrated in the nine weeks between Labor Day and Election Day, Nov. 6.

"The long summer and fall presidential campaigns of the past are gone forever," says Hall. He anticipates little or no political campaign expenses in July.

He has, nevertheless, prepared a $7,000,000 budget for the national campaigning. Three million of it—the maximum allowed under present law—will go to re-elect Mr. Eisenhower.

Around a million and a half will go to the campaign to elect a Republican Senate majority. The other three and a half million will finance the Congressional campaigns.

Two million of the three like campaign millions will be spent for television and radio time.

This time was scheduled and contracted for in late February. It will consist principally of about a dozen half-hour network shows. They will be concentrated in the last six weeks of the campaign. The last will be election eve.

Most of these major broadcasts will originate in other key cities where Ike may be scheduled to fly in for a big rally. Where they will be and how many has not been decided. But it is natural to expect them in states where the election result will be considered most important as the campaign develops.

In between the major half-hour shows will be numerous five-minute programs and spot announcements. The idea is to give the voters some kind of a Republican radio-TV charge every day of the concentrated six-week campaign.

The decision to concentrate on radio and television campaigning was made largely as a result of the closed circuit TV show on which the President spoke to 53 "Salute to Eisenhower" $100 a plate dinners in 53 cities on Jan. 20.

The emotion and the enthusiasm raised by this stunt was as great as from a personal appearance, says Hall. It was this reaction which convinced him that it would not be necessary for the President to do any old-fashioned whistle-stopping.

The idea for a "front-porch" presidential campaign waged from the President's home in Gettysburg is not being considered, says Hall.

A large part of the credit for advance Republican planning for 1956 goes to Hall. Two days after the President had his heart attack, Hall declared his belief that the President would recover and be a candidate.

Practically everybody else considered that ridiculous at the time, but Hall stuck to his guns—and made plans.

Republican National Committee headquarters in Washington already is operating at mid-campaign tempo. The staff has been increased. Office space has mushroomed into three annexes.

Hall already has allocated a budget of $350,000 and has put eight field men in the farm belt to organize the farmers.

As other issues arise during the remainder of this session of Congress, Hall intends to move in fast to support the President's position.

"What we're trying to do is avoid the crises that always developed during the long campaigns of the past," says Hall. "We're rolling now. We're in the best shape we've been in for 25 years."

4-H Leaders Hold Regular Council Meet

The Pettis County 4-H junior leaders held their regular Council meeting, Tuesday night, at the First Christian Church. There were 16 clubs present represented by 47 people. The meeting was called to order by the president, Virginia Lee Grimes, Beaman Arator, and songs were led by Beatrice Haggard, Brown 4-H. The minutes of the Dec. 19 meeting were read by Christine Silsby, Georgetown 4-H. The report of the program planning committee were read and accepted.

Bob Mason, assistant agent, introduced Miss Amy Kelly, state extension agent, who, with the assistance of Ed Hassinger, University of Missouri rural sociology department, presented a talk on the scope of farm accidents and fatalities and what could be done to cut down on them. Miss Kelly said that we should be safety conscious all the time and that our consciousness should not be something that can be turned off and on like a light switch but should be developed as a habit. If the safety habit is developed at an early age it makes one more conscious of the hazards that do exist and chances are that being aware of these obstacles that one will do something to remove them.

The greatest home hazards seem to be the improper use of electricity and the prevalence of fire hazards. The greatest source of accidents on the farm proper are tractors and the so called "gentle bull".

Miss Kelly commended the junior leaders on the job that they were undertaking and offered several positive thoughts on ways they could help make themselves and other become safety minded. Miss Glenda Rhoads gave an excellent report on her trip to National 4-H Club Congress and displayed some of the "loot" she had gathered while in Chicago.

Visitors at the meeting included Jack Jennings, assistant county agent from Johnson county, and two of Johnson county's junior leaders officers, Martha An Shier and Bertie Rose Barnes. The next meeting is April 3 and will be a mixer and recreation meeting.

Specialized Exercises Help Reduce Hips for New Styles

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Like the man who discovers they're making steps steeper each year, many teen-agers discover they're making Easter suits skimpier in the skirt each year.

One gal ruefully remarked that she obviously needed a 16 skirt and a 14 jacket to be properly fitted. It may be partially the suit—they're skinnier than ever this year—but it's also mighty possible that the hips are getting a little hipper.

A sound, well-balanced weight-losing diet helps hold the line, but weight rolls off the waistline while the hips retain their bulk. This makes it even harder to find a suit to fit without alterations.

Diet coupled with exercise for the hips can cause reduction.

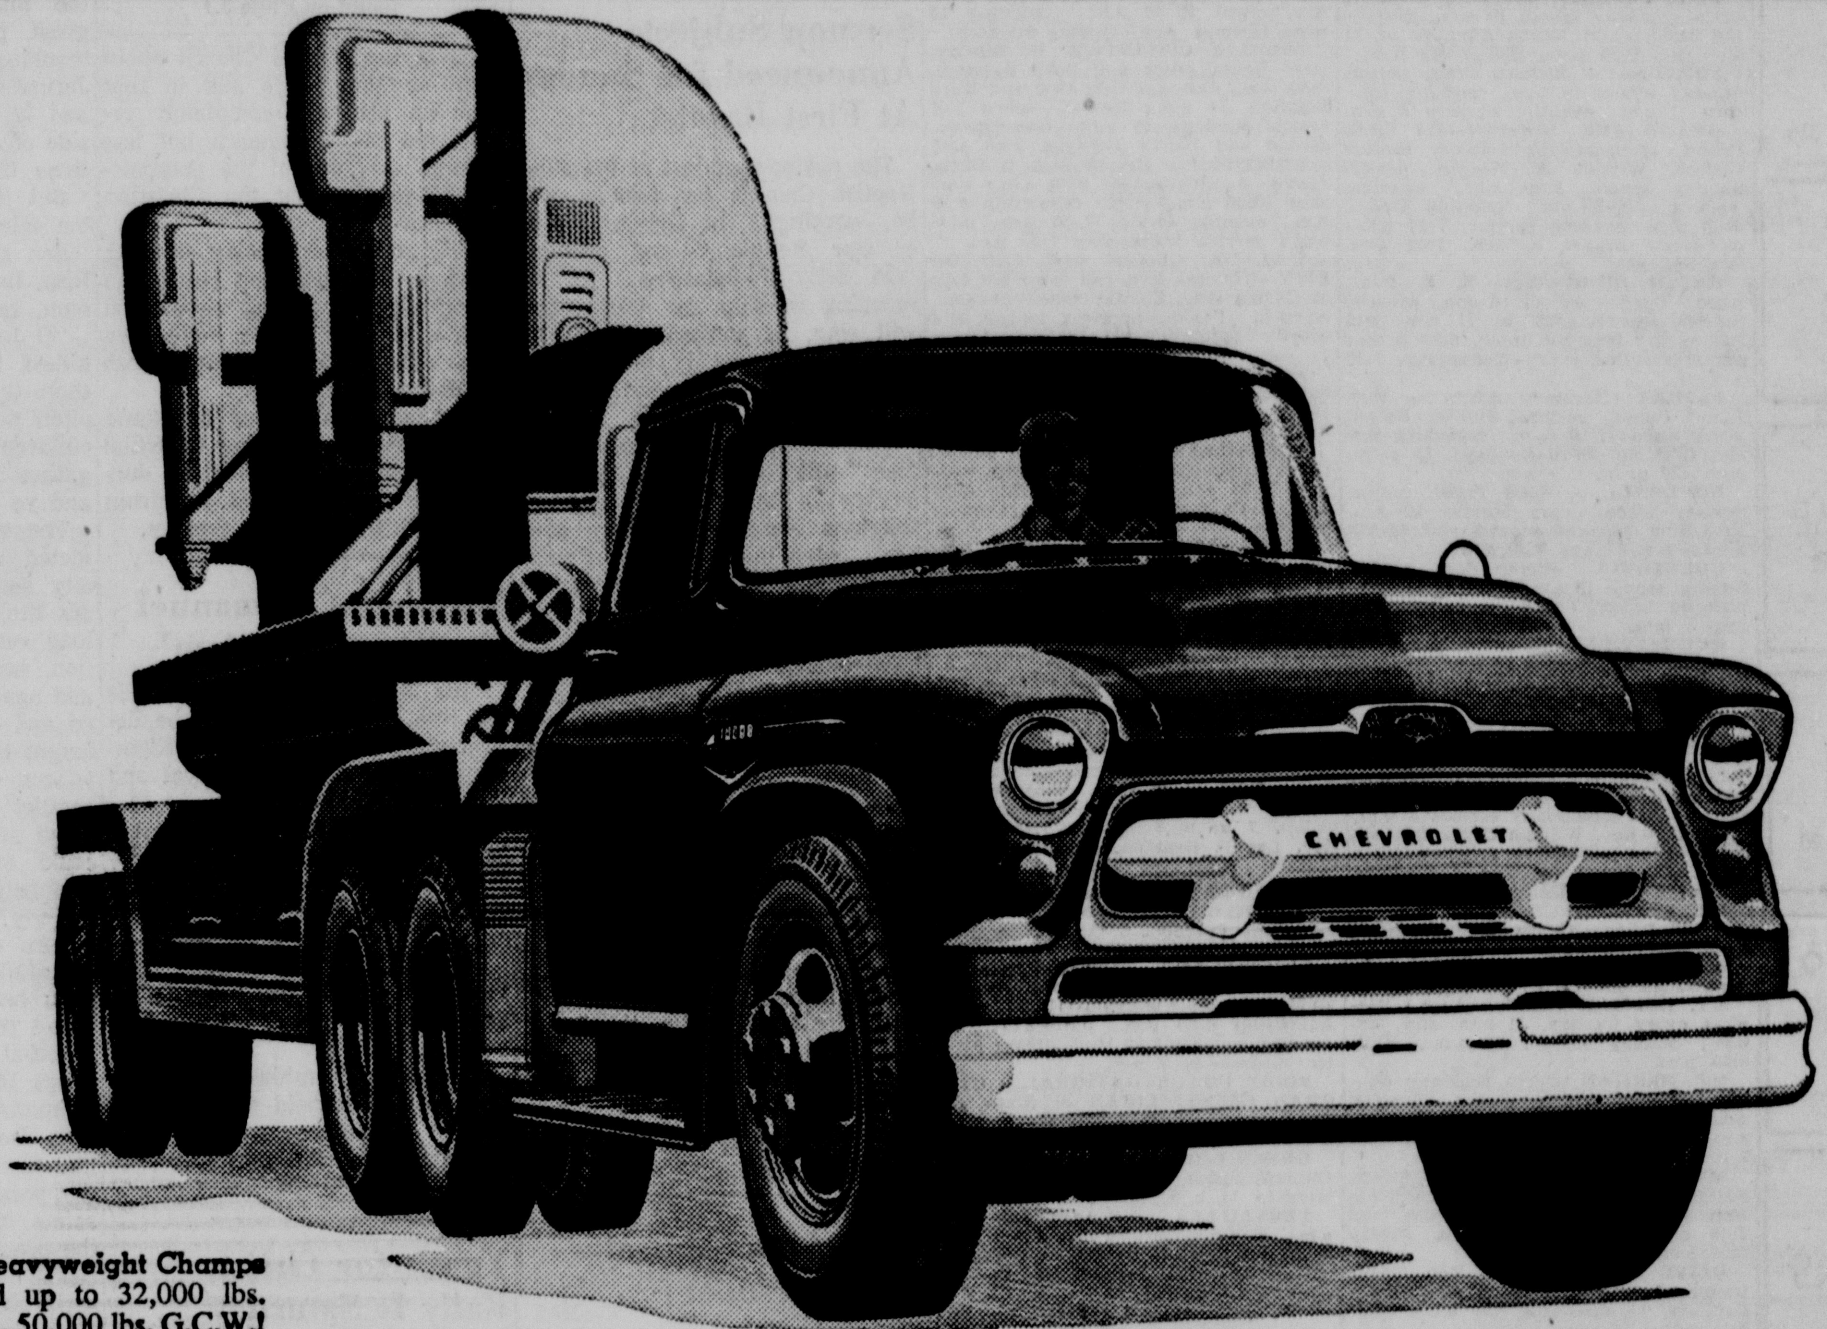

Here are some helps. Hip walking is a good one. Sit on the floor with your legs straight in front of you. Cross your arms over your chest. Then, by shifting weight from side to side, "walk" forward across the room and back.

Another: lie on your back on the floor, with your legs tucked up toward your chest and your arms extended straight from the shoulder on the floor. Extend both knees up and to the side until they touch one elbow. Then roll them across your chest and touch the other elbow. Then straighten out your legs and put them gently on the floor. Repeat, but touch the elbows in opposite order.

This one is hard work, so take it easy. Remember that if you're doing it correctly, however slowly, you'll get a feeling that the flesh between the bones and the floor is being reduced.

Although a fall or injury often is cited as a cause for a child's mental deficiency, most experts deny that this is often the case.

What Attending the Church Of My Faith Means to Me

Why do I go to church? I probably go because my grandfather and grandmother were church-going people, and workers when they got there. They took me with them when I was old enough. As I grew older, I went because of what it meant to me—Communion around the Lord's Table—the pastor's sermon—worship in song—and fellowship with others.

These are things that were given to me, but I know that if I am to grow in the church, I must give as well as receive, for the man who took his talent and buried it, lost it. Not many of us have talents for singing solos or teaching classes, but each must find his own place in the church.

When I attend church, I feel that my life is more complete. If I don't go, there is a vacant place. Also, I feel that it is my duty to go, to help financially, to give as much of my time as possible, to build a greater church.

Homer Cunningham

Sunday School Lesson Notes:

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
The words are the recorded words of Jesus, in Luke 13:34, in His lament over the "Holy City" in one of His few visits to the spiritual capital of Judaism and Christianity.

I speak of these visits as few in number, though they actually occupy a large and crucial part in the ministry of the Master. A great part of the activity and teaching of Jesus was apart from Jerusalem, in Galilee, in Samaria and in the villages and countryside of Judea, including the mountains (Matthew 5-8, 14:23).

But it was in Jerusalem, with the fate before Him that had fallen saints and prophets before Him, that Jesus uttered these solemn, saddened words:

"O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killest the prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee; how often would I have gathered thy children together as a hen doth gather her brood under her wings, and ye would not!"

The desolation that Jesus predicted would soon fall upon the city soon fell. When one considers the history of Jerusalem, the long centuries of Jewish occupation, besieged and invaded again and again by foreign armies, sacked and destroyed by the Romans, fought over by Saracens and Crusaders, and even today in the conflict of Jew and Arab in divided and almost warlike control, could one imagine anything so strangely blended of glory and tragedy?

Here was the "city of David," beautifully described in Psalm 46:2; here was the glory of Solomon's temple (I Kings 7, 8), with desecration and tragedy also (I Kings 14:25; II Kings 25:9); here Nehemiah achieved his heroic return from Babylon and rebuilding; here came the tragedies of the persecutions and slaughter of saints in Maccabean times. Here the prophets came, even from the fields, like Amos, to pronounce their exhortations and warnings. Here, in the times of Jesus himself, was the temple of Herod, vast symbol of a centralized religion (see what Jesus said about it, John 4:21-24), and symbol also of devotion, and of a corruption from which Jesus purged it.

Rome has been called "the eternal city," but that description might probably be more aptly applied to Jerusalem, for seemingly nothing can destroy it. The Roman general, Titus, supposed that he had destroyed it forever in 70 A.D., following the suppression of a revolt of the Jews against Roman rule. But a later Roman, Emperor Hadrian, rebuilt it. Any good encyclopedia will give the details of the city's many changes since then. I doubt if any other city, or country, has suffered so many vicissitudes of seizure and varied occupation.

One cannot contemplate the past without wondering what lies ahead. As I write, Jerusalem is only one part of an area and problem that threatens the whole Middle East with war, and thus in a sense the whole world. The exhortation to "Pray for the peace of Jerusalem," uttered by the Psalmist centuries ago (Psalm 122:6), has a present-day, insistent meaning.

Plan Motion Picture
Showing at St. Paul's
Lutheran On Sunday

Scheduled for showing next Sunday night at St. Paul's Lutheran Church is the new feature-length motion picture, "The Unfinished Task," latest film production of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod.

The 83-minute film portrays the dramatic conflict between a young engineering graduate who wants to study for the Christian ministry and his engineering father who violently objects. The film has been hailed as one of the most ambitious movie productions ever undertaken by a church body.

St. Paul's congregation is aiming at "saturation coverage." There will be two showings on Sunday, at 6:15 and 8 p.m. Both showings are open to the public.

With recent additional memberships, the United Nations now represents countries with a total population of 2,245,542,000.

Syphilis Is Still Serious Despite New Treatments

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.
It would be a mistake to feel that syphilis is a disease which can be safely ignored or relegated to the limbo of the past.
It does not show such violent signs, nor does it seem to be as frequent, as when I was in medical school. Methods of treating it have improved. Nevertheless, it remains a problem for physicians and public health officials.

One writer to this column recently stated that in the factory where he worked sexual promiscuity prevailed. In addition, many people disregarded sanitary regulations. With these remarks he asked several questions which can constitute the basis for this column.

First, he asks for the degree of contagiousness of the disease. It is acquired almost invariably by sexual congress from a person who has the disease in the contagious stage. Things being as they are, many innocent people did and do acquire syphilis.

The writer also asks what are the chief symptoms after the disease is contracted and how long it takes for these to appear. "Is there a reliable blood test?" he says, "to discover if it is present?"

The usual early sign is a local, painless lesion known as a chancre. This does not itch or cause discomfort and will disappear of itself after a time. So sometimes it passes unnoticed. It is most likely to appear two to three weeks after acquiring the disease.

The first reliable blood test was devised by Wassermann and there have been a number of modifications of this test since. These tests cannot be counted on at the very beginning, however, so that the history of exposure or the visible signs are more important for a period immediately after acquiring the disease.

The inquirer asks whether syphilis is inherited. It is not inherited through a woman who has it may pass on the organism responsible through the blood stream so that a child is born with syphilis. This is called congenital syphilis since it is acquired after conception and not through the germ cells of the parents.

Can a person harbor, or carry, syphilis and transmit it to a more susceptible person without himself having any outward signs of it? the inquirer asks. It is largely for this reason that some health authorities have recommended the general use of the blood test for syphilis so that those who have the disease and do not know it can be acquainted with the fact and not only get proper treatment but avoid exposing others.

Finally, it is asked if the disease may be transmitted to others through the common drinking cup, a comb, towel, or toilet. The first LAWRENCE, Mass. (U. S. — The Rev. John Positano of the Holy Rosary Catholic Church, who once played a hot clarinet in Will Osborne's band, is producing "music medicine."

He has organized an amateur band of policemen and firemen to play at Veterans' hospitals and other institutions—for free.

New Stove Control Takes Guesswork Out of Cooking

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

While the designers are dreaming up ever more marvelous and complicated devices for the cook of tomorrow to cope with, the "here and now" developments seem wonderful enough to the cook of today.

To this cook, anyhow, new and workable aids to better and more carefree cooking are really exciting.

Without taxing my imagination one bit I can visualize the convenience of one of the new ranges with a thermostatic controlled top burner.

On one burner of the stove, there is a sensing element governed by a regular dial calibrated for heat settings from 150 to 400 degrees. You select the exact temperature you want and the sensing element sees to it that the heat of food in the utensil doesn't exceed the setting.

On some of the ranges I've seen, this control is hooked to the center or fifth burner which also has the removable griddle top. Heat for a kettle of soup can be throttled down to maintain a slow steady simmer and, when the griddle is in use, this stays at just the correct frying temperature for round after round of pancakes or hamburgers.

It's also possible to have the thermostatic control hooked up to an automatic timer which will light the burner at a pre-determined time.

Another brand-new innovation for gas stoves is the automatic roaster control. This device is simply a meat thermometer with oven-ways.

You insert the thermometer into the meat and set it for the degree of rare, medium or well-done that you like. Then plug the attached cord into the low-voltage near the front of the oven. When the roast is cooked to perfection, the clever little device knows enough to shut the oven off. It won't pull the meat out of the oven, but it should eliminate much of the tiresome checking.

The succulence of rotisserie-cooked foods is well-known and has prompted more manufacturers to incorporate rotisseries into free-standing ranges as well as into built-in ovens. At least one new stove has a thermometer hooked to the spit so that you can tell at a glance when the meat or poultry is ready to serve.

On the practical problem of maintaining a range, there also are steady improvements. Rounded corners inside and out are easier to clean. The see-through glass oven windows slide out for thorough cleaning.

Higher back-splash panels are equipped with lights that really illuminate the stove top.

Color adds a new note, too. Some manufacturers are meeting the color trend with a choice of removable colored panels which can be changed at will. Others have broadened their colored finishes to include more tints. Copper-toned finishes are also growing in popularity.

It also appears to me that appliance manufacturers and cabinet makers are making more of an effort to relate their colors so that one's pink stove won't clash with another's pink refrigerator or be jarred by still another shade of pink in cabinet finish.

Power Tool Fans Can Please the Ladies With This Sewing-Cabinet Table Project

Following is key to numbered parts of "build-it-yourself" drop-leaf sewing cabinet: (1) top, (2) top framework, (3) corner posts, (4) drawer guides, (5) drawer stops, (6) drawer spaces, (7) bottom framework, (8) plywood panels, (9) bottom front piece, (10) brace.

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

If the missus makes sarcastic remarks about the expensive power tools standing idle in your basement, here's a project that should turn her scorn to approbation.

It's a sewing cabinet with a drop leaf which provides extra work surface or space for a portable sewing machine. The drop leaf folds out of the way when not in use.

Strictly a power tool project, you can build it in a short time if you have a jointer and bench saw equipped with a dado cutter. With a basic framework mostly made of 2x2-inch lumber, and with plywood on top, sides, back and drop leaf, the unit will beautify your home whether painted or finished natural.

Hinged legs attached to the drop leaf are cut from 1x2-inch lumber tapered to one-inch width at lower ends.

The material you'll need to make the drawers is one-inch lumber for fronts, 1/2-inch lumber or plywood for sides and backs, and 3/4-inch plywood for bottoms. Use your dado cutter to make 1/4-inch grooves on the inside of each piece, about 1/4-inch from bottom edges. Drawer bottoms fit into the grooves.

The drawers are 3 1/2, 6 1/2 and 10 1/2 inches high respectively, 20 1/2 inches wide and 19 1/2 inches deep. Spaces in the cabinet to receive the drawers are about 1/4-inch higher and wider to allow sufficient play for easy opening and closing.

In assembling the unit, use glue in addition to nails or screws at all joints. Drawers are assembled with 4-penny finishing nails, while 3-inch No. 10 wood screws are used at joints in the 2x2-inch framework.

Use two-inch No. 6 screws to fasten drawer guides at the proper height on each side, and to attach drawer stops to rear corner posts. Drawer spacers at the front of the cabinet are fastened to ends of guides with 4-penny finishing nails.

Attach a small cleat made of one-inch lumber 3/4-inch wide and 2 1/2 inches long to the inside of each front corner post beneath the lowest drawer guide. Secure the front kickplate to the cleats and to drawer guides with finishing nails.

The top is attached with 12 screws driven through the framework from underneath. Predrill and countersink all screw holes throughout the assembly.

You'll use your jointer to cut notches, or rabbets as the trade calls them, in corner posts and drawer fronts, as indicated in the drawings above. Rabbets run the full length of corner posts and are 1/4-inch deep by 3/4-inch wide to receive plywood side and back panels. Attach the panels with glue and 3/4-inch brads.

Mount the front leg of the drop leaf with a 1 1/2-inch hinge and a folding card-table bracket set at a 45-degree angle. The rear leg must be made 3/4-inch shorter than the front one and hinged in the same position on a block of one-inch lumber fastened to the underside of the drop leaf.

Shortening the rear leg enables it to clear the other when both legs are folded.

Use two-inch No. 6 screws to fasten drawer guides at the proper height on each side, and to attach drawer stops to rear corner posts. Drawer spacers at the front of the cabinet are fastened to ends of guides with 4-penny finishing nails.

Attach a small cleat made of one-inch lumber 3/4-inch wide and 2 1/2 inches long to the inside of each front corner post beneath the lowest drawer guide. Secure the front kickplate to the cleats and to drawer guides with finishing nails.

The top is attached with 12 screws driven through the framework from underneath. Predrill and countersink all screw holes throughout the assembly.

You'll use your jointer to cut notches, or rabbets as the trade calls them, in corner posts and drawer fronts, as indicated in the drawings above. Rabbets run the full length of corner posts and are 1/4-inch deep by 3/4-inch wide to receive plywood side and back panels. Attach the panels with glue and 3/4-inch brads.

Mount the front leg of the drop leaf with a 1 1/2-inch hinge and a folding card-table bracket set at a 45-degree angle. The rear leg must be made 3/4-inch shorter than the front one and hinged in the same position on a block of one-inch lumber fastened to the underside of the drop leaf.

Shortening the rear leg enables it to clear the other when both legs are folded.

Blind Date

CHICAGO (AP) — Although dice games are illegal in Chicago, Police Commissioner Timothy O'Connor has made special dispensation for Raymond Di Guilio.

He was caught at two recent police raids on dice games but released when it was found he was blind, the result of injuries suffered during Army service in North Africa during World War II. Di Guilio, 38, says he doesn't participate in the games but goes there to talk to friends.

Heavy Theft

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The "biggest" robbery in the history of this town, home of the University of Arkansas, occurred when eight boys "about college age" carted off an 800-pound concrete shankrock.

Glen Will told police that his wife saw the youths loading the green-painted yard ornament into a trailer, and tried to talk them out of taking it. They weren't discouraged, however, she said.

South To Bask

GLOUCESTER, Va. (AP) — Fishermen brought in a strange 9 foot, 9 inch shark caught in a net off Cape Henry.

The Virginia Fisheries Laboratory identified it as a basking shark, one of the few ever seen this far south. Someone suggested the Yankee shark might have decided to come south to bask in the sunshine. Anyway, for the information of Southerners, he is mild-mannered, sociable and a marine vegetarian.

Fight on Hanging Penalty Ends for Wealthy Woman

FIGHTING THE GALLOWS: Mrs. Violet Van der Elst argues with policeman outside a London prison as she protests a hanging.

By TOM A. CULLEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

LONDON—(NEA)—When blonde and sixtyish Mrs. Violet Van der Elst drove up to a British prison in her Rolls-Royce it was a sure sign that a hanging was about to take place inside the prison—and a disturbance on the outside.

Wealthy Mrs. Van der Elst seldom missed a hanging, or a chance to make trouble. Usually she hammered on the prison gates demanding to see the warden and to stop the execution, but she had been known to kick and to scratch in her efforts to elude prison guards.

She had been arrested a dozen times for disturbing the peace. She had also spent a considerable amount of the fortune she made in brushless shaving cream in fighting capital punishment.

Now Mrs. Van der Elst's services appear no longer necessary. The turn of public opinion in recent months against hanging has been sharp enough to make itself felt in Westminster, and the House of Commons has voted to abolish it.

While the House of Commons vote doesn't carry the power to put the hangman out of business, it was indicated the Eden government will follow the mandate and introduce legislation to wipe out the death penalty, at least on a five-year trial basis. The House of Lords overruled such a move eight years ago, but these days the Lords follow the lead of Commons.

When the five-year suspension proposal was debated in the House of Commons a year ago, it was narrowly defeated by a vote of 245 to 214, a majority of only 31 votes. This time the majority was 31—in the opposite direction.

Meanwhile, while Parliament was undecided on the issue, the Home Secretary, Maj. Gwilym Lloyd-George, took no chances. He reprieved nine convicted murderers scheduled to be executed. Nine times in a row the Royal Prerogative of Mercy was exercised, on the advice of the Home Secretary.

Not since Aug. 12, when a 22-year-old coal miner was hanged for the murder of his mother-in-law, has there been an execution in the whole of the United Kingdom.

"Judicial Death Takes a Holiday," headlined the London newspapers, while the more sensational printed stories about how Albert Pierrepoint, Britain's official hangman, has gone fishing every day since last summer.

According to a recent Gallup Poll, one in three Britons is an abolitionist, while 13 per cent of those polled are undecided. The results of a poll of 36,000 readers by the tabloid Daily Mirror were even more striking, showing a 2-to-1 majority against hanging.

The British penchant for hanging dates back to the 11th century when, under the reign of Henry VII, 72,000 executions are said to have taken place.

Even as late as Queen Victoria's reign there were 220 offenses for which punishment of death could be given from damaging fish ponds to shop-lifting. Public executions were usually occasions for drunkenness and debauchery.

In recent years an average of a dozen men and women had been convicted of murder and executed every year in Britain, although the number of murders committed exceeds 170.

To the argument that the death penalty is the best deterrent to murder, a Royal Commission which studied the problem from 1948 to 1953 concluded: "There is no clear evidence in any of the figures we have examined that the abolition of capital punishment has led to an increase in the homicide rate or that its re-introduction has led to a fall."

Have prisoners been wrongfully hanged? Chuter Ede, who was Home Secretary from 1945 to 1951, recently admitted that he allowed to go to the gallows a man, Timothy Evans, who subsequently appears not to have been guilty as charged.

Evans, an illiterate Welshman, was hanged in 1950 for the murder of his 14-month-old daughter. He also had been charged with the murder of his wife. Evans was convicted largely on the testimony of John Christie, who was living in the same house, and who in 1953 confessed to the murder of seven women, including Mrs. Evans.

"I hope that no future Home Secretary will ever have to feel that, although he did his best . . . in fact he sent a man who was not guilty as charged to the gallows," declared Ede.
